SOME SMART ALEC A long time ago (probably in a newspaper column) used the term "Little Old Lady" in generalizing about some incident which had occurred in which a motherly matron had seemed oblivious to what was going on around her.

It had a certain connotation that was supposed to be slightly humorous.

So the term was picked up by others in the writing game who were lacking in originality. It has been used indiscriminately since as a sort of catch-all.

Some have used it so much that they just write "LOL" and readers are supposed to know what is meant.

We have been guilty of using the term on several occasions.

Last week, for example, in this column we mentioned something about "citing little old ladies for going through stop signs"...

In retrospect (aided and abetted, we might add, by a phone call from a party who identified herself only as an elderly woman) we now realize we have been unfair in our usage of the term "little old lady".

Our caller explained (and she had a lot going for her) that she was getting a wee bit tired of the phrase which definitely maligned her gender and age-group.

She insisted (and there was considerable merit to her argument) that elderly males ("little old men"?) cause more problems than her particular age-group did.

She added that she was a regular reader of this column mostly to see what silly things we had to say each week.

But apparently we didn't lose out entirely, for she concluded her admonition to us by conceding that she thought we were "all right" most of the time.

But, believe us, we are going to be more careful in the future.

Readers we like.

THAT, OF COURSE, leads up to a recent visit to our office by Mrs. Dorothy Kahn, of 1110 W. Hamilton (Apt. 2).

Mrs. Kahn, a newcomer to Campbell from Pennsylvania, recently spoke at a potluck dinner at the West Valley Senior Action Center.

She made a tremendous impact on the audience by her talk on Lincoln and what he means to the nation even today.

Mrs. Kahn came into the office for the express purpose of meeting the person who turns out this column weekly to let him know how much she enjoyed it.

After those two experiences, if you think we are about to use the term "L....O....L...." again, you are absolutely nuts.

Not in this column, for sure.

THOSE OF YOU WHO have heard us spout off orally or in this column, will recall that we have long maintained that a person's vote is sort of a sacred thing.

We really don't have much faith in those who claim that they can "deliver" so many votes in any given election.

Shucks, just between us, we have never known how our own Dorothy was going to vote and whether our "influence" could carry any weight with her.

So, naturally, we were quite shocked when Fran Clever reported that Mrs. Velma Olds, city treasurer since 1958 who is running for reelection, told her after a Congregational church service recently that she was not "speaking to Fran" because she worked for The Campbell Press.

Mrs. Olds added that "everyone at the Campbell Press was against her" being

Youths hold conference Saturday

Under the sponsorship of the city's Youth Advisory Commission, the first all-city Youth Conference in this community's history will take place at Del Mar High School this Saturday, March 21, from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m.

According to Rusty Hammer, chairman of the Youth Advisory Commission, the purpose is "to get kids and adults together to talk over problems that have been bothering them".

Recommendations that are developed at the conference will be forwarded to the City Council by the Youth Advisory Commission.

Assemblyman John Vasconcellos (D-Campbell) will be the keynote speaker and is scheduled to address the assembly at 1 p.m. after the 12:30-1:00 lunch break.

Mayor Homer Hyde, who will be introduced by Linda Adams, of Del Mar High, and a member of the Youth Advisory Commission, at the afternoon assembly, will, in turn, introduce Assemblyman Vasconcellos.

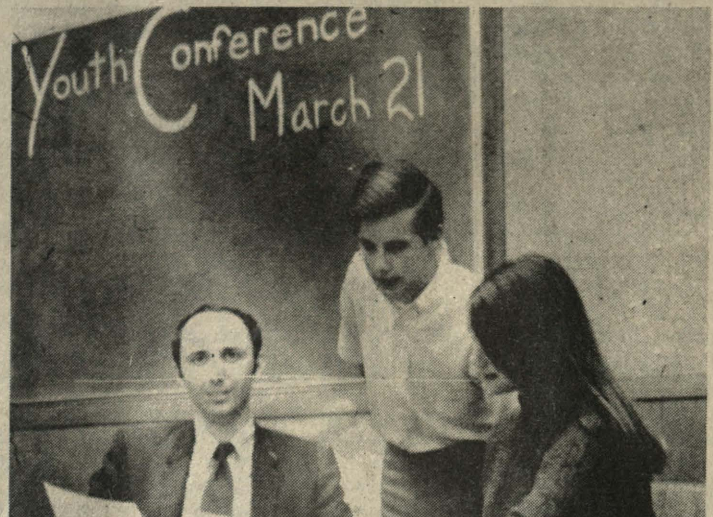
A question and answer period will follow the keynote speaker's talk which will be followed by the reports from the various discussion groups that are scheduled to meet from 9:30 until the lunch break.

From 8:45 until 9 a.m. preregistration will take place in the cafetorium where the "delegates" will be welcomed by Chairman Hammer of the youth commission.

A skit will be presented following the welcoming remarks followed by a talk by Police Chief John D. Morgan of Campbell.

Following the discussion group reports in the afternoon, Mary Ann Chalmers, of the Youth Advisory Commission, will give a resume of the conference and some idea of the type of recommendations that may be forwarded to the City Council.

The discussion groups that will discuss the various problems that the youth of the community are interested in, will be limited to 15 persons each, according to the committee in charge to allow for the maximum individual participation.



PLANNERS---Carl F. Kuhn, assistant to the city manager, and Bill Graham, Campbell High senior, and Karen Crawford, Del Mar High senior, of Youth Advisory Commission, discuss final plans for the first Youth Conference this Saturday.

High school to take 'cutback' problems to parents

Faced with a curtailment in the educational program of the Campbell Union High School District because of the failure of the voters to approve a 35-cent tax hike last month, the trustees of the district on Monday directed Dr. Nicholas Montesano, superintendent, to take the problem directly to the parents.

Tentative plans call for a series of "town hall" meetings in each of the eight high schools in the district in which proposed economies will be presented in order to get the public's reaction.

The action of the board came on the heels of recommendations made by teachers of the district who held a mass meeting last Friday afternoon to discuss the problems facing the district.

The teachers at Friday's session emphasized that they wanted a voice in determining cutbacks in the district, according to Lanny Dragon, president of the teachers division of the Campbell Union High School District Education Association.

The teachers claimed that they should be consulted in any curtailment because they were the "closest to the learning process".

The negotiating council of the teachers had recommended 17 "economy measures" to the board which included the discontinuing of bus services as the major cutback item.

The recommendations also suggested the curtailing of summer school offerings, discontinuing language labs, home teaching, team teaching and instructional swimming.

Trustees of the district have maintained the problem is not alone that of teachers and that the parents also must have a voice in the matter, for it is their youngsters who will be affected.

Dr. Montesano said that it is planned that at the town hall meetings the entire problem will be aired and the proposed economies and their effect on the overall educational program will be presented.

The prime purpose of the town hall meetings will be to inform the parents of the financial problems facing the district, to get their reaction to the recommendations and to discuss all possible alternatives.

West Valley College calls bond vote

Voters in the West Valley Joint Junior College District will be asked to approve a $35.6 million bond issue in June at the June 2 district primary election.

The decision to call the bond election came last Thursday night after the trustees of the district had discussed the issue for more than an hour.

All members were unanimous in the decision to go for the bond election, noting that there is a real need in the district for completion of the Saratoga campus, purchase and completion of the Mission College site and purchase of the site in the southern part of the district along with the property upon which stands the grammar school currently being used as part of the college campus.

The trustees also indicated they will hold a special meeting Thursday, March 19 at 4:30 p.m. in the board room to announce selection of the new superintendent/president of the district.

Dr. Wallace W. Hall, who currently holds the position, announced last summer he intends to retire July 31 of this year.

The screening committee composed of the seven board members and the presidents of the faculty senate, associated student body and the college chapter of the California School Employees As-

Council faces 'sticky' zoning

Two controversial zoning issues that have been around for quite a spell (1- the Winchester Drive-in theater parcel and, 2- the Gilman-Railway-Dillon area) will be up to bat again at the City Council meeting next Monday, March 23.

Both zoning items on Monday's agenda are expected to draw a good attendance.

Involved in the long, drawn-out drive-in theater hassle is the six-acre virtually land-locked parcel adjacent to the theater and owned by Syufy Enterprises, owners of the drive-in.

The six-acre parcel is now zoned R-3-S (multiples) which zoning prohibits drive-in theaters. Syufy Enterprises have requested a zone change to allow the present theater to expand its operation. A use permit for a third screen has also been requested. The Planning Commission turned down the requests and the theater people are appealing to the Council.

Complicating matters even more is that the Planning Commission has approved a 244-unit apartment complex for the property (as requested by Syufy Enterprises). But access to the property from a public street must first be obtained before the apartments can be built. In approving the apartments the Planning Commission specified that there must be satisfactory access provided at no cost to the city.

Syufy Enterprises have appealed these conditions, maintaining that access cannot be obtained.

Almost as complicated is the zoning problem of the Gilman-Dillon-Railway sector.

For a year, the area has been under a special interim zoning which specifies that a use permit must be obtained for any new construction in the area. The special zoning was put into effect to allow time to study the area as to the type of zoning that would be best for the future development.

The section is included in the area for which federal aid has been applied under the redevelopment program. Under the '701' general plan, the area is specified for multiple housing.

The interim zoning expired on March 10 and since then a

What is needed in Rincon Park?

What recreational priorities should be included in the plan for the development of Rincon Park?

Henry Cary, of the Parks and Recreation Commission, is scheduled to request the City Council next Monday, March 23, for help in answering that question to assist the landscape architect who is now drafting a master plan for the parks.

In a related park matter, the City Council is expected to consider the question of asking the voters to approve an increase in the maximum interest for city bonds now at 6%. The City still has $300,000 in park bonds and $500,000 in street bonds to sell.

However, because only $50,000 is needed to get the neighborhood park program underway, some of the councilmen have indicated they would prefer to take their chances with the present interest ceiling.

Planning Commission deadlocks over S. Bascom zoning issue

Absence of one of the seven members complicated the voting situation at the Planning Commission Monday night, for the even number of commissioners (six) present resulted in a 3-3 deadlock on three occasions.

On the fifth try, the Planning Commission finally managed to adopt a motion recommending the type of zoning that should be placed on an eight-lot parcel on S. Bascom that is in the process of being annexed to the City.

(The recommendation puts P-O [professional office] on the west side of S. Bascom and C-2-S [medium commercial] on the east.)

But the "compromise" did not meet with approval of irate residents adjacent to the lots (mostly from El Solyo outside the city limits) who made their feelings known by their comments during and after the hearing.

Dominating the eight-lot annexation is "The Yardstick"

How to tow

What controls can the City exercise in the towing of vehicles from private property is scheduled to be explained by City Attorney Joe Bonacina at the City Council meeting next Monday, March 23.

Various councilmen and other city officials have become concerned over complaints registered by some citizens over the manner in which cars have been removed from some shopping areas and the excess charges that have been levied.

The towing of the cars by a San Jose firm was instituted in most cases as a means to combat the indiscriminate parking of West Valley College students.

Civic center moves ahead

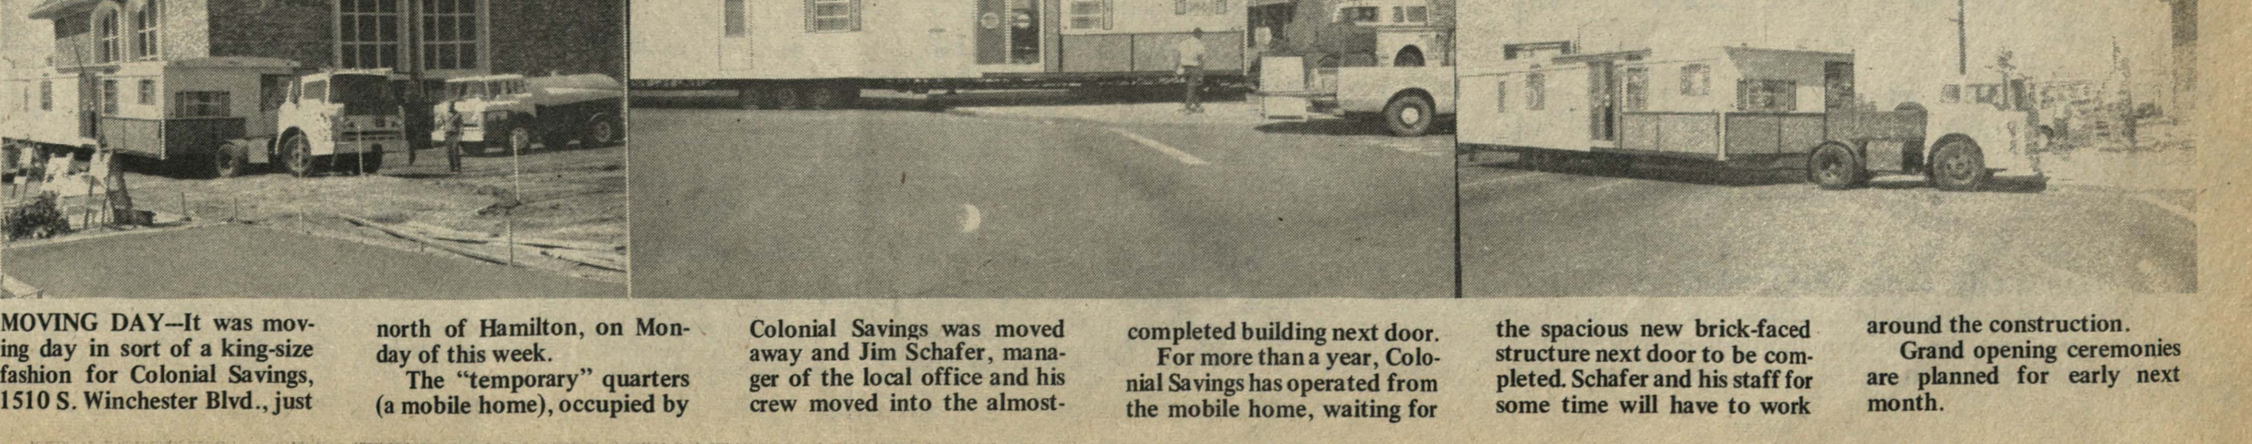
Campbell's long - awaited civic center complex moved a couple stages closer to reality this week; (1) bids are expected to be called for the city hall next Monday, March 23, and (2) agreement has apparently been reached for the acquisition of two more parcels of property for the new library.

City Manager Bob Stephens reported that Bill Hedley, civic center architect, has the preliminary plans ready to be submitted to contractors for bids and will ask the Council for authorization Monday.

The schedule calls for bids to be opened on Wednesday, April 22 and awarded on Monday, April 27.

Stephens also reported that Henry Grattan, owner of two of the seven parcels, needed for the library which will be located between Central and Harrison, and the city have come to terms on the purchase of the properties.

Only the property owned by Ray Stroppa, fronting on Harrison, now remains to be acquired by the city for the new library.



MOVING DAY--It was moving day in sort of a king-size fashion for Colonial Savings, 1510 S. Winchester Blvd., just north of Hamilton, on Monday of this week.

The "temporary" quarters (a mobile home), occupied by Colonial Savings was moved away and Jim Schafer, manager of the local office and his crew moved into the almost-completed building next door.

For more than a year, Colonial Savings has operated from the mobile home, waiting for the spacious new brick-faced structure next door to be completed. Schafer and his staff for some time will have to work around the construction.

Grand opening ceremonies are planned for early next month.

Editorial

Zoning dilemma

One of the complex zoning problems that has faced the City of Campbell for the past decade involves the Gilman-Dillon-Railway area.

Early in the '50's, the area was zoned M-1-S (light industrial) with the hope that such zoning would attract industrial firms to the area and many of the sub-standard buildings in the area would be replaced by substantial industrial structures.

The City also conducted an aggressive condemnation program which resulted in the removal of many of the buildings that could not be "brought up to code".

Although a number of industrial firms have located in the area during the past 10 years and substantial new structures have been built, it has not changed into the modern industrial park that had been anticipated.

As we have stated so many times, zoning alone does not automatically transform an area...It takes developers...and money.

Over the years at various intervals, suggestions have been made that the area should be developed for multi-housing, especially of the low-cost type.

Records will show that at one time an attempt was made to consolidate the property owners into some sort of a mutual organization that could offer larger parcels that would be more attractive to potential buyers and developers.

One of the glaring liabilities in any improvement program for the area is that the lots are of small size and there is multi-ownership involved. This, naturally, tends to complicate matters in any contemplated sales.

Thus getting a group of property owners together to work toward the mutual interests of all concerned has been a complicated and a difficult task.

So the problem still exists.

Approximately a year ago, a group composed largely of people interested in low-cost housing, indicated that the area should be "reserved", so to speak, for some sort of low-cost housing development, probably through federal assistance.

The group felt that construction in the area of the industrial type should be halted so that the space would not be used up. Adding strength to this concept was the fact that the city's '701' planning program, developed through federal aid, had indicated that the area was suitable for multiple housing.

The City subsequently applied for federal assistance in planning a redevelopment program and the Gilman-Dillon-Railway sector was included in the overall area for the redevelopment program. (The area actually extends to Winchester Blvd. and is bounded on the north by Latimer and the south by Kennedv.)

The application for federal aid in the planning is still pending.

As part of this entire program, the City, a year ago, then placed an "interim zone" on the Gilman-Dillon-Railway area, which specified that no building could be constructed in the section without a special use permit being issued. The point, of course, for this type of zoning was to control any construction in the area until definite plans for its future were established.

The interim zoning expired on March 10 and the Council on March 3 placed a building moratorium on the area, that is effective until March 23. At that time it must be decided whether the interim zoning should be lifted and the area revert to its M-1-S (light industrial) status or continue the interim zoning for another year.

It is a dilemma that faces the City Council that has no easy answer.

Complicating the problem even further is that three industrial concerns in recent months have applied for permits to construct industrial buildings in the area. Their applications are virtually being held in abeyance depending on the Council action on March 23.

We submit that the construction of a low-cost housing project in the aforesaid area would be ideal.

No one will deny the need for such a development.

But such a development cannot take place overnight.

We are all aware of the length of time that must elapse if any federal program is undertaken and, even with a substantial federal subsidy, other capital must be raised.

So far, to the best of our knowledge, no private investors have come forward with definite plans for any housing development for the area.

So we reiterate, it is a dilemma that the City Council faces that really has no answer that will satisfy all concerned.

Should the City decide that the interim zoning be extended to allow more time for exploration of all other possibilities, those industrial firms that are waiting in the wings will claim that they are being penalized.

Should the City, on the other hand, decide to have the area continue as an industrial sector, it will definitely compound the problem, if, at some future date, a housing development can be firmed up, for the area.

reelected city treasurer and implied it was unfair for her to have competition for the position. (Nadine Sargent is running against her.)

Aside from the fact that we haven't had occasion to talk to Mrs. Olds in more than two years and she hadn't bothered to even inform us that she was running for re-election (we learned that fact from the city clerk's office), she was grossly unfair in accosting and accusing Fran of being a rubber-stamp for us.

Fran's vote is her own business and her's only.

It was a ridiculous accusation and we are pretty sure Mrs. Olds must have made it on the spur of the moment without thinking.

We think it is healthy to have competition for any city position. We maintain that the office of city treasurer gives the electorate an opportunity to have a responsible voice in the fiscal affairs of the city.

By action of the City Council, the office of city treasurer will continue to be an elective one. And that is the way we feel it should be.

We are always reluctant to ever give up any electorate control in the government, especially on the local level.

But, in turn, the person who holds the office must be aware of the responsibility that the position warrants and also should remember that an elective office does not imply perpetuity.

Otherwise why have an election.

Next question?

THERE WAS A LONG letter - to - the - editor in last week's issue written by Pat Sullivan, of 2289 Wren Way, who complained about his car being towed away from the Campbell Center parking lot by a San Jose towing firm.

He had to pay $32.50 to get his car out of hock and it cost him another 40 bucks to fix the bumper and realign it.

Pat had parked in the lot for about a half hour in the evening while he picked up a book for a class he was taking at West Valley College.

Apparently the tow people, who were stationed at the lot, saw him head for the college and then nabbed the car.

IT'S A LOUSY DEAL, NO matter how you look at it. It has been brought about by the lack-of-consideration attitude of the West Valley College students who persist in parking wherever they darn please on the residential streets or in parking lots reserved for customers, despite the fact that the college maintains a parking lot (between Campbell and Rincon) that is generally only half-filled.

The college kids overflowed the parking lot at the Campbell Center until the merchants in the center got tough about it. Cars were hauled away that belonged to the kids.

It is our opinion, that the mobile college crowd sort of play Russian roulette in this parking business.

If they don't get a ticket or have their cars hauled away, they think they are ahead of the game.

If they get caught, they pay and yelp. But they pay and hope they don't get caught again.

What's so grossly unfair about the whole bit is that the "permanent" residents must suffer the consequences brought about by the inconsiderate acts of the college crowd.

We think that it is a darn shame that Pat Sullivan's car was towed away. We can't help but wonder that some consideration should have been given to the registration tag that was on it.

But we have ranted before about all this.

And, as we have told before, from our peace of mind it is a good thing that we don't live on any of those residential streets that are adjacent to the college, knowing that a parking lot just for the college is half-full.

We would be sputtering more than we are doing now.

THIS IS NOT APPROPOS of anything in particular, but in clearing our notes, we found a news release about a "barbed wire show" that was staged in January of this year at Sutter Creek, Calif.

The release mentioned that the California Barbed Wire Collectors Association was to hold its winter quarterly meeting in the form of a one-day barbed wire show and swapmeet.

Apparently we were intrigued by the idea when we received the notice.

And we still are.

Now, we haven't anything against barbed wire on the whole, although we have been exposed to it enough.

But the only experience we have had with the stuff is that we never seem to hold one strand up high enough and/or the other strand low enough to squeeze through without ripping our shirt and/or pants or both or cutting the heck out of our hand.

Under these circumstances, we have never bothered to learn the identity of the wire that did the damage.

The aforementioned news release noted that there are more than 300 different wires on exhibit, covering virtually every type of barbed wire which has been found by collectors from all over the world.

A few of the wires were reportedly exceedingly rare and could bring from $20 to $1000 per 18-inch length from the collectors.

Organized in January, 1969, in Fresno, the association has now more than 100-card-carrying members. (It is scheduled to meet again in Coalinga on March 28.)

We have also learned that more than 400 barbed wire patents were issued by the U. S. government between 1867 and 1893 and that there are 40 to 50 types of barbed wire used in California.

We are pleased to share this essential information with you.

Maybe it will help you crawl through the next fence.

EL PARADISO COUNCIL

Often one hears about - quote - "the good little things that the PTA does" - unquote, but how many times does anyone really inquire as to what these "good little things" are?

El Paradiso Council, which includes the Campbell and the Moreland Elementary School Districts, as well as the Campbell Union High School District, involves almost as many men as women.

This year El Paradiso Council has been directing its efforts towards helping McKinnon School, where mentally handicapped children between the ages of six and 21 are educated in special classes. At Thanksgiving and Christmas time, all the schools in the area had special drives for useful items for the McKinnon Stores where the students learn how to handle their own money.

At the present time, all participating schools are engaged in a drive for Blue Chip stamps which will be redeemed for an audio card reader for use in the reading classes at McKinnon. It will take 150 books to purchase one such reader, and the drive is in full swing so that the machine can be presented before the end of this school year. Anyone wishing to contribute stamps may do so by calling Mrs. Robert Stewart, El Paradiso president, at 378-3571.

The Council maintains a clothes closet where clean, usable clothing is kept. Any child, or family, in need of clothing may be outfitted here.

At Christmas time baskets were donated to the needy.

Quite often the Council will be notified of a family who must buy glasses for a child, or perhaps a child needs dental work badly, but the family is financially unable to care for these needs.

HAPPY 95th BIRTHDAY-- When a man hits the age of 95, he should have a birthday party. And Lucius Winkler had a wonderful party, complete with a cake, card shower and even personal congratulations from President Richard Nixon. Above on the left Lucius is seen holding the presidential card while on the right he is seen with, r. to l., Ruth Alfield, Donna Renollet and Rose Sievert, from the Lutheran Women's League of the Lutheran Church Of Our Savior who are active volunteer workers at the San Tomas convalescent hospital where Winkler is a patient.

Lucius Winkler observes 95th recent birthday

A group of women from The Lutheran Women's League of the Lutheran Church Of Our Savior, 5825 Bollinger Rd., San Jose, have made it a practice to visit the Foothill Convalescent branch of the San Tomas Hospital once a month.

On their visits they prepare birthday cakes for the patients at the hospital who have had birthdays during the month, run errands for them, write letters and perform other personal services which let the patients know that someone still cares.

Eight out of the 32 patients no longer have any living relatives to visit with them, and they look forward to the visits from the Lutheran League ladies.

Faithful workers include Mesdames Rose Sievert, Ruth Alfield, Donna Renollet, Esther Workman, Stella Trammell and Mercedes Hansen.

One of the patients who recently enjoyed his 95th birthday party was Lucius Winkler, a Campbell area resident since 1931. A native of Missouri, Lucius still maintains a keen interest in the other patients of the hospital and even assists in feeding two of them at every meal.

He was delighted with a birthday card shower that included a card from President Nixon and is looking forward to his 96th birthday.

K of C hosts recent District Degree ceremony

Bishop O'Dowd Knights of Columbus Council No. 3474 of Campbell-Los Gatos hosted a district degree ceremony at its Wedgewood Drive hall on Wednesday evening, March 11.

Grand knights, representatives and candidates from Mission Santa Clara Council of Santa Clara, St. Lawrence the Martyr Council of Santa Clara and Our Lady of Fatima Council of Sunnyvale attended.

District Deputy William Winter led the degree team consisting of the grand knights from the four councils in bestowing the Formation Degree (2nd degree) upon 12 candidates from the councils. The ceremonies were scheduled as part of the national John F. Kennedy Memorial recruitment campaign.

Candidates receiving the degree by council were: Joseph Sylvia, Joseph Barge, Edward Luksus, Patrick Sisco and Harry Emmett of Bishop O'Dowd; Vern Forsling, Paul Telles, Rudy Martinez, Bill Kiefer, Ed Garcia and Emil Johnson of St. Lawrence the Martyr council; John Hallahan of Our Lady of Fatima council.

Admission Degree, (1st degree), ceremonies also hosted one week later by Bishop O'Dowd council. Seven candidates from Bishop O'Dowd and St. Lawrence councils were admitted to the fraternal order.

WINNERS AGAIN — Tina Schrotenboer, Campbell, seated, and Retta McDaniel, 18, of San Jose, won first place in the debate team section at the recent Santa Rosa Junior College Invitational speech tournament. Both students attend West Valley College. They will compete at California Polytechnic College March 20-21 and at The Junior College State Championships at the University of Southern California April 2-4.

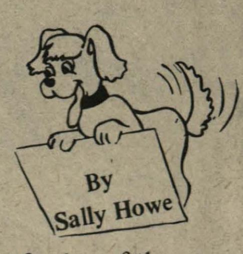
Bringing up fido



"Training" a dog suggests different things to different people.

There is "training" which means housebreaking; "training" which means knowing how to shake hands and roll over, and "training" which means obedience work.

Obedience conjures up a whole new set of ideas, but in essence, it means MINDING.

A dog cannot 'mind' until he learns what is expected of him, since reasoning is not part of a dog's makeup.

Schools of training are now readily accessible, and can be a rewarding experience for both dog and handler.

The person who enrolls in a group training class with a preconceived idea of what he wants from the program can benefit greatly; however, the person who has a preconceived idea of how this is to be accomplished sometimes finds themselves at outs with the trainer.

Most trainers follow the exercises set forth in the American Kennel Club's novice classes, and even though the training is simply for the satisfaction of the owner, it is an excellent program to follow.

Basic obedience consists of having a dog heel, sit, down, come and stand—all very useful things for the family dog to be able to understand.

Nothing is nicer than being able to take the dog for a walk (on leash) down the street after dinner and not have him tug or pull or whine. Again, it's very pleasant to have him lie down in a corner, or stand while you brush his coat, and especially nice to own a dog who COMES WHEN HE IS CALLED!!

One of the most common mistakes the would-be trainer makes is to either force-train the dog or to try to have him accept commands to obey when he hasn't learned them well enough to always perform them.

The mistake most often made is to try to get the dog to perform when he is not wearing his leash and collar. This means the commands can't be enforced unless the owner gets "rough".

Training should be a pleasant experience for both dog and handler—never a tug of wills.

With a very young dog, the training should be done in short sessions—like a small child, the puppy's attention span is pretty short. Once both owner and puppy are losing patience, it's time to quit.

Although the term "choke chain" scares people, it is a perfectly acceptable collar for adult dogs, and makes enforcing a command a much easier job. I don't like seeing a choke chain on a very young puppy who has had no leash training and can easily be panicked, when the collar tightens around his neck.

For the first leash breaking use some kind of leather or cloth collar and coax the puppy along. Sometimes this can be done by voice, other times with food. Running a little ahead and turning to face the puppy and coaxing him along usually can do the trick.

Just remember, keep it fun!

TIME OUT -- This German Shepherd is taking time out from her obedience performances to raise a healthy litter of eight male and three female puppies, born Feb. 8. "Carri" owned by Winston and Barbara Adcock, 790 Kenneth Ave., earned the title "Companion Dog Excellent" before retiring to family affairs.

A REAL HOUNDS TOOTH-- design is this curious necklace from ancient Polynesia made of teeth from dogs which is being tried on by Linda Boyer with some moral support from Jo Ann Proctor, both from Campbell High School, at the Ripley's Believe it or not Museum on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf. The teeth of dogs were highly prized, both for personal adornment and as money in the South Pacific at one time. And, a necklace is a necklace as any young woman will attest. The students were among over 100 youthful journalists attending a High School Editors Press Conference and Luncheon at the museum March 7.

ON CAPITOL HILL

with "Charlie" Gubser

When Queen Isabella pledged her jewels to finance Columbus, it cost $26,000 to discover a new world. In the 1960s this nation penetrated a universe at a cost of $35 billion.

I have supported a realignment of our national priorities and goals to put our space program on other than a crash basis and attack other problems which perplex us as earthlings. Nevertheless, I cannot join with those who write off our massive expenditures to conquer space as wasted. Quite the contrary is true.

Almost everyone knows of the more direct benefits of our space program – communication satellites linking us to all peoples of the world – weather satellites saving lives by advance warnings of killer hurricanes – navigation satellites adding to the safety of travel by sea and by air – surveillance satellites which are stripping secrecy from the deadly weapons of every nation – and the prospect of cruising manned spaceships to fend off enemy attacks from outer space.

The unplanned, indirect benefits may prove far greater. They range all the way from the very ordinary to the miraculous – from a super glue which you can now buy at the hardware store to the last word in electronics which before long may virtually restore sight to the blind.

An electromagnetic hammer for fabricating rockets is being tested for construction of ships and automobiles, shaping metals without weakening them, which may soon give you a cheaper and stronger automobile. A canopy or "glass sandwich" which insulates spacecraft from icing will be a cradle cover affording precise temperature control for prematurely born infants.

A super-insulated blanket of aluminized mylar will keep you cool when it is hot, warm when it is cold, and dry when it rains. Thermal underwear is already on the market, a byproduct of spacesuit development.

Spray-on electrodes will take a heart patient's electrocardiogram while he is being rushed to the hospital and flash it to the waiting doctor. By a flick of his eyes, a paralytic can manipulate a motor-driven wheelchair.

Complex electronic components devised by space research make possible a small TV camera which, worn on the forehead, will scan a blind person's surroundings and reading matter. Then, bypassing the sightless eyes, it would transmit an image to a tiny, teflon-insulated receiver in the visual cortex of the brain, enabling the blind to "see." The camera might eventually be miniaturized to fit into an eye socket.

There are numberless other benefits, small and great – scar-proof, long-wearing, fire-resisting paint, a whole new family of plastics which will transform the automobile of the future, and a computer-filter process which provides infinitely clearer x-rays, adding speed and precision to medical diagnosis.

All of these benefits to the human race which we take for granted came from our conquest of space.

Homeowners should apply for exemptions

Homeowners who did not receive their 1970 property tax exemption application should obtain one as soon as possible. The Santa Clara County Assessor's Office recently mailed 250,000 exemption applications to County homeowners.

However, some homeowners may not have received the application. The application will allow anyone who owned and lived in his own home, duplex, or condominium apartment on March 1 a $750 exemption on the assessed valuation of his property for 1970.

Homeowners who did not receive an applciation should go to the Assessor office, Exemptions Division, 200 West Hedding, in the basement of the San Jose-Milpitas Municipal Court.

Veterans who are now receiving the $1,000 veterans' exemption should also apply for the new homeowner's exemption. If they fail to qualify for the veterans' exemption they will still be able to claim the $750 exemption. In addition, if the veteran owns his own home as well as a second home, he may claim a homeowner's exemption on his house and the vet's exemption on the second dwelling.

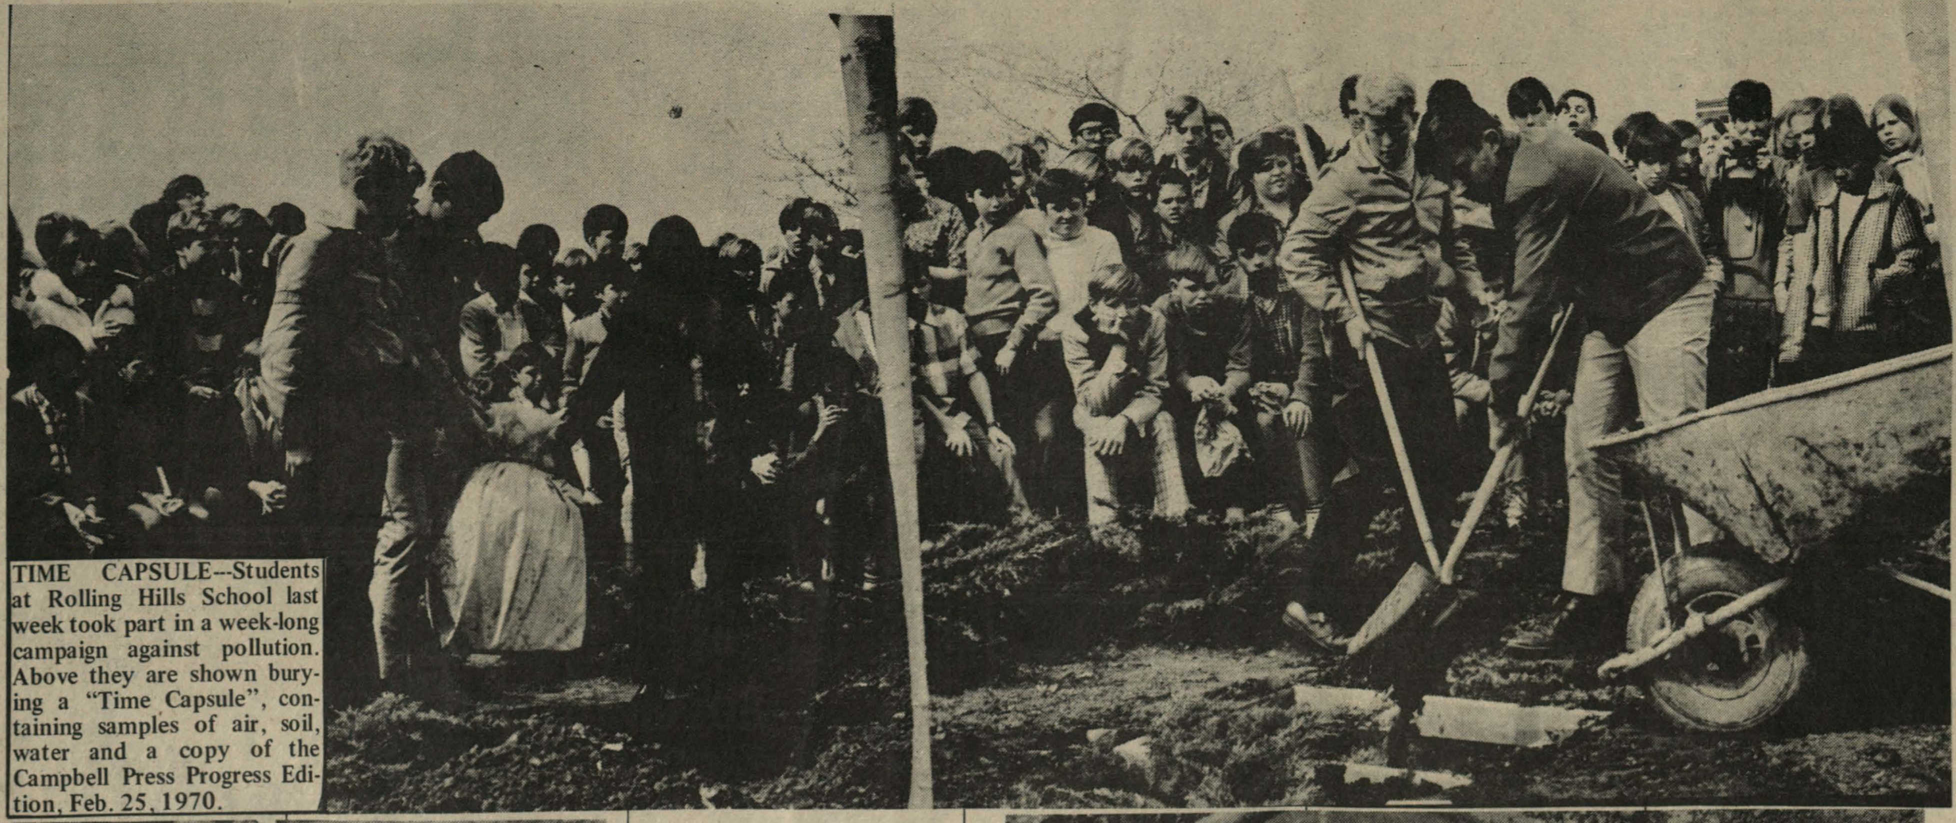
Rolling Hills School pupils learn about ecology

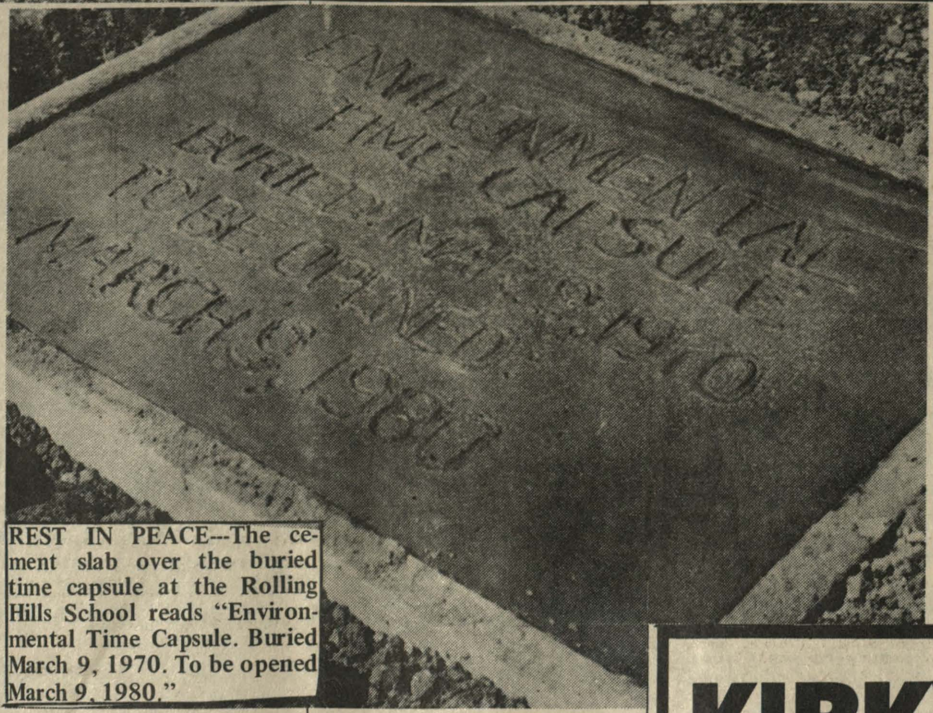


TIME CAPSULE---Students at Rolling Hills School last week took part in a week-long campaign against pollution. Above they are shown burying a "Time Capsule", containing samples of air, soil, water and a copy of the Campbell Press Progress Edition, Feb. 25, 1970.

IN THE GROUND---The time capsule is covered with dirt.

EXPOSED---a slap of cement covers the time capsule.

Students practice conservation week at Rolling Hill's School



REST IN PEACE---The cement slab over the buried time capsule at the Rolling Hills School reads "Environmental Time Capsule. Buried March 9, 1970. To be opened March 9, 1980."

AWARENESS OF AIR POLLUTION --- Students demonstarted other means of transportation other than smog producing autos.

ROLLING HILLS

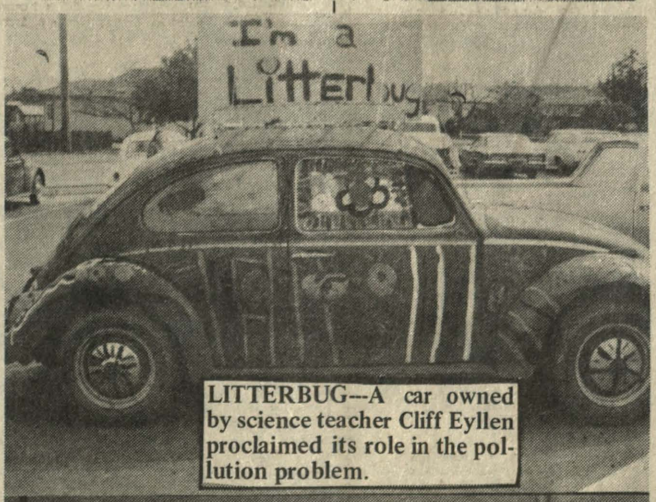
Students at Rolling Hills School learned about pollution during the last week. And what is more important, they learned effective ways of doing something constructive about it.

"Save Our Selves" was the title of the ecology week directed by Cliff Eyllen, science teacher. On Monday the students wore masks of all types to school, pointing out the air pollution problem. They also buried a time capsule.

Tuesday saw 25 trees planted and the students and teachers all walked to school, picking up litter on the way. (A large pile resulted.)

A science class presented displays ranging from air pollution to creative garbage on Wednesday and on Thursday a giant chain letter on the subject of conservation was prepared and sent to Governor Reagan.

The entire week culminated with a contest awards assembly. Students can be directed to constructive procedures and it is their generation who will have to live with air, water and ground pollution.



LITTERBUG---A car owned by science teacher Cliff Eyllen proclaimed its role in the pollution problem.

LITTER---This pile of litter was picked up by the students as they walked to school during the week.

Testa s observe Golden Wedding

MR. AND MRS. FRANK TESTA

Fifty years of married life were celebrated at a surprise buffet dinner held recently in honor of the golden wedding anniversary of Frank and Rosa Testa.

The Testa's have lived for 45 of those years at their home on Bucknall Road where they raised prunes, apricots, grapes and other ranch products. Their four children all attended Campbell schools and reside in the area.

The lovely home of their daughter and son-in-law, Louise and Jerry Gibino in San Jose was decorated with white bells and white cupids in honor of the occasion. The floral table centerpiece carried out the gold and white color decor with yellow chrysanthemums and white carnations.

Following the dinner the beautifully decorated 50th wedding anniversary cake was cut by the honorees, who were married in Richmond, Calif. For the occasion Mrs. Testa wore a rose colored sheath accented with an orchid corsage.

Present for the dinner affair and also hosting were the Testa's sons and daughters-in-law, Larry and Marie Testa; Johnnie and Marian Testa and Al and Doris Testa. Sharing in the festivities were their seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

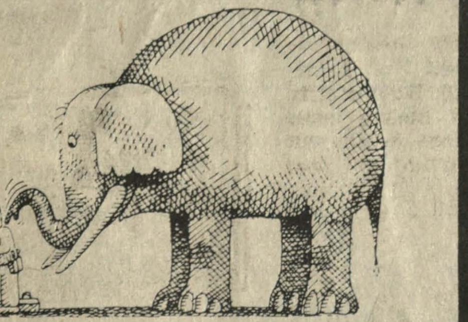
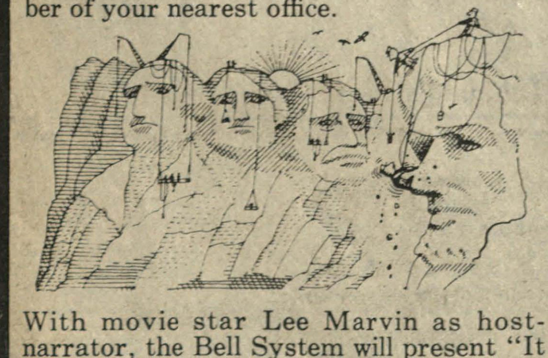
THE PHONE BOOTH



Probably some of the most amusing on-the-job incidents reported by telephone employees come from installers. While dogs are traditionally the bane of postmen, they rarely encounter an alligator or elephant. Not so with the installers, who are trained and equipped to put in and maintain telephones just about anywhere.

One Bell System installer, for example, was confronted by a five foot alligator in the basement of a customer's home. ("Just a pet," the owner blithely explained.) Another installer had to fight off the affectionate attentions of 15 dogs which a customer was keeping in a 2 room flat. And then there's the installer who found himself trapped in the equipment room of a sports arena by an elephant who wouldn't budge from the doorway. The tales are endless, but such incidents are part of the job for these hard-working men—who'll face just about anything to bring you good telephone service.

You may be filling out a new 1040 income tax form this year that combines the old 1040 and 1040A forms. If you have a tax question, look in the white pages of your phone book under "United States Government, Internal Revenue Service" to find the number of your nearest office.



With movie star Lee Marvin as host-narrator, the Bell System will present "It Couldn't Be Done," a color television special paying tribute to American "builders of the impossible." Air date is Thursday, April 2. Check your newspaper for time and station.

The program will salute the people who achieved such projects as Mt. Rushmore Memorial, the Panama Canal, Golden Gate Bridge and Holland Tunnel. Musical accompaniment will be provided by The Fifth Dimension.

Letters to the Editor

A MOTHER PROTESTS
AN OPEN LETTER TO CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY SCHOOL DISTRICT TRUSTEES

This is to inform the board that we are keeping our son out of school this entire week. He is in 8th grade at Rolling Hills Jr. High School.

If the board hasn't received one, I suggest you obtain a copy of the yellow sheet from Rolling Hills outlining the week's activities in observation of National Conservation Week. I have sent my only two copies to Governor Reagan and Max Rafferty, or I would enclose one for you.

My husband and I support proper observance of Conservation Week; planting trees and burying time capsules serve to create in young people an awareness of their environment, and that care must be taken to preserve it.

But the program at Rolling Hills transcends this worthy goal.

This type of week-long, almost hysterical program does not belong in the public schools. This is mobilization of immature children for political purposes; using them as pawns and grooming them for the same type of free-wheeling demonstrations and mass "protests" we are experiencing on college campuses and in high schools today.

Encouraging 6th, 7th and 8th grade students into emotional mass "protests" against pollution, or whatever, is a serious mistake!

One wonders what mental aberrations have overtaken supposedly mature and highly paid educators, administrators and principals that they can condone this type of activitiy in a principals that they can condone this type of activity in a Jr. High School; that they seem not to recognize the strange and dangerous precedent being set here. Today, ecology–tomorrow–what??

The activities at Rolling Hills are an example of "participatory democracy" so highly touted by the "new educationalists" and others. If you examine the concept, you will find it quite in conflict with our republican form of government. It rapidly becomes mob rule, whereby trusting, un-informed (or in this case, immature) groups are led into certain prescribed actions by leaders or political activists using mob psychology and/or cybernetics.

The rash of "citizen's committees" springing up all over the country is another classic example of "participatory democracy", where the citizens are being utilized to create a facade of acceptance of programs of which only their group "leaders" know the full scope.

The purpose of it all is to bring about a "change" in our form of government. It's time we look deeply into that proposed "change". It's time we object strenuously to allowing our children to be used as agitators for that "change".

Even if my husband and I are the only ones opposed to this idiocy, which we well might be, we trust you will carefully look into this matter and take steps to insure that our elementary schools in this district are not going to be used as training grounds for "political activists" and "protestors".

most sincerely,
Mrs. Deloris Feak

ON PROGRESS EDITION

Congratulations to you for your outstanding progress edition published on Feb. 25. I thought it was done extremely well and have talked to many others who share my thoughts.

Thank you for including in this edition the names of our Honor Roll students and the picture of our "A" students, plus the article regarding our plan for keeping the school grounds clean and the pictures of our Student Council officers.

I would be grateful if you would let Mrs. Sally Howe know how much we appreciated her taking the pictures, and her pleasant and friendly attitude with the students while doing so.

Respectfully and gratefully yours,
Mrs. Dorothy M. Sutter, Principal
Campbell Elementary School

COMMENDS CARRIER

Mr. George Vierhus:

Matt Cary came today to collect from Mr. W. B. Whitmore. He is my brother-in-law. I heard the knock and called him over to pay him and explained to him Mr. Whitmore was ill and in the hospital.

The youngster, Matt Cary, was gone for about 20 minutes and came back with a get well card and asked me to be sure and give it to my brother-in-law. I accepted and said thank you with tears in my eyes. Cried later.

With boys of this caliber who needs to worry about the generation coming up. On Matt's sweetness and kindness I would like for him to deliver the Campbell Press to me. Please God may we have many more like him.

I know he spent at least 25¢ for the card. What more of a kind, sweet and sincere gesture could you ask of any of your carriers. Please let him know that he is loved for what he did.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Idell Harmon
49 E. Latimer Ave.,
Campbell, Calif.

BEAUTIFICATION THANKS

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Campbell Citizens for Beautification, may I express our sincere thanks for the excellent pictorial coverage of the landscaping of Fire Station No. 2.

It was one of the most exciting community events that I have participated in because of the enthusiasm of all the youngsters and adults, and you caught that excitement in your coverage.

Our thanks to Fran Clever for the fine photos. She somehow managed to recognize all the various organizations whose members participated, and this was no easy feat with the huge number of workers present.

Please accept our "Well Done" bouquet because it was certainly well earned.

Sincerely,
Jeanette Watson,
chairman
Campbell Citizens for Beautification

P.S. We appreciate your interest in environmental pollution as indicated in your editorial of March 11. We invite interested and concerned citizens to attend our next meeting on March 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers where this problem will be discussed.

Homes robbed during week

Home burglaries took an upswing during the week with entry having been made in three Campbell area homes. The burglar entered unlocked windows and in all cases made off with money, jewelry, appliances and in one instance carted off all of the clothing in the residence.

Victims of the thief included Johann T. Genovese, 440 Richlee Dr., Scott Lymen, 276 Christopher and James Bohen, 828 Kenneth Ave.

Area residents are asked to report to police any suspicious people in the residential sections. Strange cars in the area could also be suspect. The Campbell police phone number is 378-8141 during days and 378-2122 after 5 p.m. Locking doors and windows will also deter some of the burglaries.

MORE ABOUT

Bascom zoning

at 2110 S. Bascom. Residents adjacent to the flourishing business complained that the business was a nuisance to them mostly because of the overflow parking. They opposed any zoning that would allow the firm to expand.

Among those voicing their opposition at the hearing were Boyd Tripp, 1085 El Solyo, Richard Schilling, 1115 El Solyo and Mrs. Edmund Kublick, 1072 El Solyo.

Present at the meeting also was Bernard Alter, owner of "The Yardstick".

Alter said that he was providing parking for his employees across the street (42 spaces) and that he felt that many of the objections levied against his firm were unwarranted.

What concerned the Planning Commission mainly was how to control parking on "Lot No. 6" at the rear of "The Yardstick" fronting on El Solyo, which seemed to be the main worry of the residents.

Before the final 4-2 vote, three motions in a row ended in a 3-3 deadlock while another motion died without a second.

The first deadlocked motion recommended that all the area be zoned C-2-S except for "Lot No. 6" which would be P-O. Frank Klein, Merrill Grim and Jack Healey went for that route with Thayer Lyons, Norm Paul and Dale Scott opposed.

The next motion to make it all C-2-S got the same treatment with Paul, Lyons and Klein favoring that and Healey, Scott and Grim on the other side.

The next 3-3 job was to divide the area with C-2-S on the east side and C-1-S on the west. That was stalemated too with Lyons, Paul and Scott this time favoring with Klein, Healey and Grim opposing.

A motion made by Scott, failed to get a second, that would have divided the area into three zones, C-1, C-2 and P-O.

The motion that finally gained the majority specified that the west side (five lots) of the annexation would be zoned P-O and the east side (three lots) C-2-S. Lyons, Paul, Klein and Scott voted for it with Healey and Grim opposed.

Prior to the hearing on the S. Bascom matter, the Commission approved: Plans for 198-unit apartment at 629 Hacienda submitted by Paul Bogdanich; plans for a 36-unit complex at 52 Michael Dr. by Errico and Byrnes; plans for an industrial building for Joseph L. Pizzo at 120 Kennedy; plans for an industrial building for R. V. Cloud at 301 E. Hacienda; plans for a four-unit complex at 166 Michael Dr. for Carothers and Worrell; plans for an industrial building for Vanderson Construction Co., on Dell Ave.; plans for a 192-unit for Guild West at Valley Forge and Millich.

Zoning issue

moratorium has been in effect for all building. The Council, therefore, must take action next Monday on whether to extend the interim zoning or let it revert to the previous zoning of M-1-S (light industrial).

Complicating matters is the fact that at least three applications are on file for permits to build industrial structures in the area.

An "unofficial" appeal will also be before the City Council next Monday brought by residents in the Central Park Drive area (outside the city) adjacent to the industrial section on McGlincey Lane (within the city).

Herman Osorio, and others on Central Park Drive, are objecting to the industrial complex at 356 McGlincey Lane that was recently approved by the Planning Commission. They did not appeal the ruling within the specified time limit but have been granted the privilege to make an oral protest.

In another "first", the Council is expected to approve payroll deductions for members of the firemen's union that was recently established. (Local 1939 of International Association of Fire Fighters.)

Adopted an administrative recommendation that an advertisement be placed in the Mexican-American newspaper, "El Excentrico," four times a year to inform Mexican-American students of some of the advantages of attending West Valley College, such as the availability of scholarships, vocational and guidance programs.

Approved the creation of a special committee, for the purpose of reviewing non-monetary gifts donated to the college and making recommendations concerning the acceptance of such gifts to the governing board.
